Timothy M. McNamara, CIMA, CDFA, CFFA

Timothy M. McNamara is the co-founder and partner of New England Divorce Solutions, a firm specializing in matrimonial finance issues. New England Divorce Solutions is an unparalleled resource for divorce professionals, including family-law attorneys, divorce mediators, and therapists. We are New England's only exclusive matrimonial finance practice whose goal is to enhance the services these divorce professionals offer clients who are going through a divorce.

New England Divorce Solutions offers full-case management and litigation support, prepares net-worth statements, traces assets, and provides analysis of stock options and complex equity compensation plans. In addition, New England Divorce Solutions provides expert testimony and can serve as the financial neutral in a collaborative divorce.

Mr. McNamara is a Certified Divorce Financial Analyst (CDFA), a Certified Forensic Financial Analyst who also holds the prestigious Certified Investment Management Analyst (CIMA) designation from the Wharton School of Business. He has over 15 years experience managing assets for high net worth individuals at Morgan Stanley, UBS Paine Webber and Charles Schwab. Mr. McNamara is also the founder and CEO of McNamara Capital, LLC -- a boutique independent wealth management firm located in the Back Bay of Boston, specializing in providing objective and strategic wealth management advice to professionals, same-sex couples and individuals going through a transition, including divorce. Timothy is a highly active member of the allied divorce community and a frequent speaker to divorce professionals throughout the New England area. He has presented to the New Hampshire Bar, Massachusetts Collaborative Law Council, Mediation Works Inc., and the Worcester Community Action Council. Timothy also serves as the co-director of the Massachusetts Chapter for the Association of Divorce Financial Professionals, a non-profit organization. Mr. McNamara is also the author of numerous articles about divorce and finance.

Mr. McNamara maintains a high level of professionalism at his firm with his partner Tracey Manzi. "Timothy and Tracey are extremely professional," says attorney Edward Amaral, Amaral & Associates, P.C. (Winthrop). "They're very responsive, usually answering queries the same day... and they've never missed a deadline." Josh Hoch, Director of Divorce Mediation for Mediation Works Incorporated, (Boston), agrees: "We appreciate their high professional ethics. They're very committed: they put in the time it takes to deliver a product that's accurate."

Mr. McNamara is committed to using his skills and expertise to guide divorce professionals and their clients through the divorce process with clarity and compassion. Whether he is providing litigation support or expert testimony, preparing a lifestyle analysis, reviewing settlement proposals, or participating as a member of a Collaborative Divorce team, you can count on his attention to details. He is an excellent listener who knows how to connect with clients and pinpoint their issues. He also brings resources and leading edge financial tools that help make the divorce process easier for both the divorce professionals and their clients.
