Tracey M. Manzi, CFA, CDFA, CFFA

Tracey M. Manzi is a Certified Divorce Financial Analyst, a Certified Forensic Financial Analyst and the founder and owner of New England Divorce Solutions LLC, a firm specializing in matrimonial finance issues. She works with attorneys, mediators, collaborative professionals, and individuals to provide clarity on complex financial issues that arise both during and after divorce.

New England Divorce Solutions advises clients on the short and long-term financial impact of a divorce settlement. "We work closely with individuals to understand their current economic situation and offer our guidance for future financial issues," says Tracey. The firm also provides litigation support to attorneys. Services include comprehensive life-style analysis, lump-sum alimony analysis, tracing assets movements, and identifying an investment's basis. The firm also provides post-divorce financial education and budgeting as well as a bill paying service.

Tracey understands the financial intricacies of divorce and is fully committed to helping divorcing individuals grasp their new financial reality, plan for the future, and finally move on with their lives. An active member of the allied divorce community in the New England area, she is the co-director of the Massachusetts Chapter for the Association of Divorce Financial Planners and is trained in Collaborative Law. Tracey is also a member of the Mass Bar Association, Massachusetts Collaborative Law Council, International Academy of Collaborative Professionals, Association of Family Conciliatory Courts, Massachusetts Council on Family Mediation, and the Institute for Divorce Financial Analysts.

Tracey also provides financial advice to individuals who have experienced any type of significant life transition, including divorce, at McNamara Capital, LLC. She offers over 15 years of institutional investment management experience and has held positions as a Global Fixed Income and Currency Trader and Global Investment Strategies Analyst at Standish Mellon and Payden & Rygel Investment Management Firms. Tracey was responsible for trading over $3 billion dollars in assets, recommending fixed income, currency, and derivative investment strategies, macro-economic research and communicating performance results, portfolio strategy, and market outlook to clients. In addition, she holds the prestigious Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) designation.

Tracey is a proud member of the Junior League of Boston, the Financial Women's Association, and the Boston Security Analyst Society. In addition, she dedicates her time and expertise to answering questions on divorce finance related matters on www.womansdivorce.com. Tracey's Italian heritage has given her a passion for fine food and wine. She enjoys cooking at home and dining at the many wonderful restaurants in the Back Bay of Boston, where she resides.
